JULY 7-13, 1980

Tuesday, July 8

"AVOIDING SEXISM IN THE CLASSROOM" will be the topic of the Women's Resource Center Brown Bag Discussion at noon in the 360-F Series in the University Center at the University of Montana. Jeanne Nehls, a Missoula school teacher, will lead the discussion. Nehls is presently working on a research project concerning the same subject. The discussion is free and open to the public.

Thursday, July 10

"ANYTHING YOU WANT TO BE," a free film, will be shown at noon in the 360-F Series of the University Center. Cheryle Johnson, non-traditional job counselor at the Women's Resource Center, said the film is a collection of interviews with women and men who discuss their jobs, which are not traditionally held by their sex. Materials on non-traditional jobs will be available; the film and materials are free.

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING," will be presented at 7 p.m. on the University of Montana Oval by the Montana State University "Shakespeare in the Park" touring company. The play, sponsored by the Associated Students of UM Programming office, is free. In case of rain, the production will be moved to the UM Women's Center gymnasium.
